"CIRCULAR."
400 TONS OF GROCERIES, ALL OF RECENT IMPORTATIONS.
THE Undersigned respectfully inform their friends that they have built and otherwise added to their old premises about four hundred tons of store room, and as their stock of goods will be proportionably increased, they hope to be enabled to make this establishment a DIRECT MEDIUM between the producer and the consumer, and save the innumerable intermediate profits which impose so heavy a TAX on the necessaries of life.
The advantage of purchasing goods of a house of known integrity and stability is obvious to every one, particularly when the stock is extensive, the terms liberal, and the prices low; this is the more necessary in New South Wales, where the supplies are generally conveyed to an isolated station some three or four hundred miles up the country before they are looked at; how many have found their supplies on inspection of the very worst description, and the parties who sold them "retired from business."
From the commencement of this house in 1835 to the present time, the business has continued to increase, until it has become necessary to keep an average stock of from three to five hundred tons of goods to meet the current demand. The present stock is sufficiently varied to meet the views of all classes, and includes—choice parcels of China, Mauritius, and ration sugars, twankay, hysonskin, congou, and fine teas, raw and roasted coffee, China preserved ginger in jars, a variety of pickles, sauces, and bottled fruits, the best old Manila cigars, in and out of bond, first quality negrohead tobacco, American and colonial, fine Patna rice, sago, pockets of Kent hops, caroteels currants, boxes raisins, spices, vinegar, corrosive sublimate, bluestone, castor oil, Epsom salts, tartaric acid, carbonate of soda, sperm oil, eau de Cologne, preserved salmon, dairy and Liverpool salt, &c.
IN ADDITION TO THE ABOVE, THE UNDERSIGNED HAVE IN THEIR CELLARS—
Martell's brandy
Champagne brandy, in dozen cases
West India rum
Hollands, in cases and half cases
Altona, or prime Old Tom
Fine old Port
Rich old Madeira
Pure sherry
Sparkling champagne
Agreeable Marsala
Old Teneriffe
Hock, claret, and Cape wines
ALSO,
Byass's bottled ale and stout
Dunbar's ditto
Burton ale, in hogsheads
Rum, brandy, and gin, in bond
The quality of the above may be relied on, and as the undersigned are desirous of cultivating a wine and spirit trade, they invite connoisseurs in wines, publicans, wine merchants, and others, to inspect their cellars.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

SUPREME COURT.—Banco Sittings.

Friday.

Before their Honors the three Judges.

EX PARTE HENEY.

Mr. Lowe moved, upon the affidavit of John Finch Heney, for a writ of habeas corpus, directed to Hannah Heney, the wife of the deponent, requiring her to bring up the bodies of William Thomas Heney, aged six years, and Mary Catherine Heney, aged three years. The affidavit set forth that Heney had, in consequence of his wife's misconduct, been compelled to live apart from her, and that she had detained in her charge the two children, whom he wished to have under his own superintendence.

The Court granted the motion, making it returnable on Monday next (this day).

Exchequer Jurisdiction.

Before the same.

WINDEYER v. RIDDELL AND ANOTHER.

This was an action of trespass, in which Richard Windeyer was the plaintiff, and Campbell Drummond Riddell and Samuel Flood were the defendants. The declaration set forth certain trespasses by entry into the plaintiff's house, and seizure of his goods, and the defendant Flood had, amongst other things pleaded as follows:—That her Majesty the Queen was seized in demesne of certain lands by right of her Crown of England, and from these lands had granted to the plaintiff the land upon which was situated the house wherein the trespass was alleged to have been committed, subject to an annual quit-rent of £6 17s. 6d. sterling. On the 31st of December, 1842, the sum of £48 2s 6d. became due to her Majesty for seven years' quit-rent on account of this land, and Campbell Drummond Riddell, Esq., having been appointed by letters patent her Majesty's Treasurer and Collector of Internal Revenues, it was the duty of that officer to collect and recover all rents, &c., due to her Majesty. The plea then went on to allege that the defendant had entered the premises of the plaintiff, in the performance of his duty as a bailiff, to distrain for the sum due by the plaintiff for quit-rent.

This plea had been demurred to by the plaintiff upon the following grounds—first, that it did not traverse or confess and avoid any averment in the declaration; secondly, that it showed no authority for the distraint; thirdly, that it was argumentative, inasmuch as it was asserted that it was the duty of the defendant, Riddell, to distrain because he was the Treasurer and Collector of Internal Revenue; fourthly, that it contained matters of evidence, inasmuch as it stated that the defendant Flood was the bailiff of the Queen, and was thereby authorised to seize, &c.; fifthly, that it was double, asserting both the right of Riddell to distrain, and the fact of those quit-rents being part of the internal revenue; sixthly, that it put in issue matters which were really questions of law; and seventhly, that it was otherwise bad and insufficient in law.

The above plea justified the entry only, but there were a number of other pleas which justified the taking of the several articles alleged to have been seized and converted. These pleas, which were all substantially the same as the foregoing, had all been demurred to. The whole of the points, however, were the same, and the argument was taken upon the first plea only.

Mr. Lowe appeared in support of the demurrer, and Mr. Fisher in support of the plea.

The argument in support of the demurrer had reference principally to three of the points only which were raised by the demurrer—first, that the plea was bad because it involved matters of evidence; secondly, that it was not the duty of the defendant Riddell, as Treasurer and Collector of Internal Revenue, to distrain; and, thirdly, that as far as Her present Majesty was concerned, the quit-rent was not payable to the Crown; having been given up to the Consolidated Fund. The plaintiff, it was contended, was entitled to take issue upon the question as to whether the officers alluded to had acted upon lawful authority, and the plea, in assuming the existence of this authority, was clearly bad. The defendant Riddell would not possess any authority to distrain for quit-rent by virtue of his commission as Treasurer and Collector of Internal Revenue: for, according to the common law the Sheriff, as the bailiff of the Crown, was the only officer who could thus enforce the collection of the Crown rents. Of late years however, the Court of Exchequer had taken to itself a great portion of the power which the ancient sheriffs exercised, and the sheriffs now only acted in these matters under the direction of that Court. So late as the 3rd and 4th William IV, it had been thought essential to pass an Act in order to transfer their powers from the Sheriffs to the Commissioners of Woods and Forests. The office of sheriff was one of such antiquity, and of so much importance, that it had been held to be beyond the power even of the Crown to derogate from the power and dignity of this office: for when Queen Elizabeth appointed a person to be a clerk of a county, and the Sheriff interfered with that appointment, upon the ground that the officer holding it possessed powers and derived benefits which belonged properly to his (the plaintiff's) own office, the two Chief Justices to whom the question was referred, decided that the Crown could not take from the entirety of the Sheriff's Office and position. The office of a manor bailiff was perhaps an office in which as large power as possible would be implied, but the authorities went to show that the power of distraint could not be implied in favour of a person appointed to his situation, unless such a power was given by express words in his commission. It was clear, therefore, by their analogy that a power of distraint could not be vested in the defendant, Riddell, by his mere appointment as Treasurer and Collector of Internal Revenue. An additional argument to the same effect was also afforded by the fact that at Prince Edward's Island it had been found necessary to pass an Act in order to confer the power of levying upon the Receiver-General of Quit-rents, an officer whose title would imply, much more than that of Mr. Riddell, the possession of such a power as the latter had assumed. By the Civil List Act, 1st and 2nd Victoria, chap. 1, section 2, all Crown revenues and droits of the Crown, as well in England as in the colonial possessions, were ceded to the consolidated fund, and as this cession was made, there must perforce have been a concurrent cession of all the powers necessary for their collection. It was true, that by the twelfth section of the same Act a power was still retained to the Crown of levying the smaller revenues, but these quit-rents were not a branch of the revenue which could come properly under the class of items comprehended in this clause, and the very fact of the Legislature having made the special exception proved beyond question that all other branches of this revenue were to be dealt with in the manner contended for.

In support of the plea it was contended, that the office and position of the Sheriff in this colony were so different from those of the Sheriffs in England, that the duty of collecting the Crown revenue could not be said to appertain in this colony to that officer. By the Charter of Justice the Sheriff of the colony was appointed for the purpose of executing the process of the Supreme Court, and it was to this branch of the ancient Sheriff's duties that the actings of the Sheriff of New South Wales were confined. The mode in which the Crown dues were collected in England under the authority of the Court of Exchequer, was a very cumbrous one; and by the New South Wales Act, only so much of the English law was adopted as was suitable to the circumstances of the colony, and as could be fairly carried out. The duties of a Sheriff, as collector of the Crown revenues, were duties which could not be carried out here for want of necessary machinery, and would be wholly unsuitable to the circumstances of the colony; consequently this part of the English law could never have been adopted. The Crown having appointed an officer with the title of Sheriff, to perform one portion of the duties fulfilled by the ancient Sheriffs of England, could clearly cast upon another officer that portion of the ancient Sheriff's duties which had reference to the collection of the Crown revenue. This power, therefore, was conferred upon the collector of the internal revenue, and that officer was especially recognised in the Licensing Act, the Tolls Act, and several other Acts of Council, as one to whom the collection of these duties properly belonged. The Act of the Legislature at Prince Edward's Island had nothing to do with the question: for it was impossible to see its effect unless they were first shown the special circumstances which called it into existence; but the title of a Receiver-General of Quit-rents, which would appear to be rather that of a treasurer or custodier of these revenues, would less imply prima facie a power of distraint than that of Collector-General of Revenue, whose very title of Collector would naturally raise a supposition that he possessed all the necessary powers to collect. The several Acts which had reference to the transfer of these Crown revenues to the consolidated fund in return for certain Parliamentary grants, did not thus transfer the fixed revenues of the Crown in the foreign and colonial possessions of her Majesty; but merely the casual revenues derived by the Crown from the surplus of these fixed revenues, the latter being appropriated to local purposes. The defendant Riddell claimed to distrain by virtue of a special power from the Crown to that effect, and the plea necessarily set out this power, although such a recital would not have been requisite in the case of such an officer as the Sheriff, whose general power of distraining was well known to the law. The plea, by asserting that the quit-rents were part of the internal revenue, and that the defendant Riddell had the power to collect and distrain, did not assume matters of evidence, or raise issues upon questions of law; but merely stated that the inferences of law from the previously stated facts.

In reply it was urged that even in the case of a Sheriff, an actual authority would have to be proved for each distraint, and the Collector of Revenue must consequently have a special authority to act upon in each case, or else a general authority from the Crown for the exercise of this power. The existence of this authority was a matter of evidence which the plea had improperly set forth. It was unnecessary to incumber the present question with the consideration as to what were duties and powers appertaining to the office of Sheriff in this colony: for it appeared clear enough that the mere appointment of an officer as collector could not as a natural consequence confer upon the officer thus appointed a power of distraint. The Tolls Act, and the other local Acts referred to on the other side, made against the argument which they had been quoted to support, for a power was there given to the Collector-General of Internal Revenue to appeal to the Justices; whereas if they had regarded him as an officer who could distrain, the power of distraint would have been conferred upon him at once.

Their Honors reserved judgment.

A demurrer by the defendant Flood to the plaintiff's replications in the same action was next argued. To the plea of seizure as the bailiff of the Crown the plaintiff had replied, first that the defendant had not immediately removed the goods, but remained in the house for ten days after the seizure; and, secondly, that the defendant sold and disposed of the goods within fifteen days after receiving the same.

Those pleas were demurred to upon several grounds, but the substantial question for argument was, whether the Crown was bound by the 51st Henry III., the 2nd William and Mary, and the 7th George II., which limited the powers of distraint, and enacted particularly that goods thus seized by the Crown should not be sold until after fifteen days subsequent to the distraint had expired.

The arguments upon this case were not concluded at the time the Court rose, and will be continued on Wednesday.

Court adjourned until ten o'clock on Monday morning.

By order of the Aldermen of the City. John Rae, Town Clerk."

Court of Claims.—The Commissioners will proceed to investigate such unsettled claims to lands and town allotments as are still before them, on Monday next, at eleven o'clock.

Appointments.—His Excellency the Governor has appointed Henry Moor, Esq., of Melbourne, to be a magistrate of the town of Melbourne; and Mr. William Duguid to act as Registrar of the Court of Requests, at Sydney, during the absence, on leave, of Mr. Hutchinson Hothersall Browne.

Female Factory.—State of the Female Factory, Parramatta, on the 1st November, 1846:—Under colonial sentence, 41; not under colonial sentence, 101; in solitary confinement, 1; in hospital, 14; lunatics, 21. Wollongong.—A proclamation in Friday's Government Gazette directs that the provisions of the Act 2 Victoria, intituled "An Act for regulating the Police in the towns of Parramatta, Windsor, Maitland, Bathurst, and other towns respectively, and for the removing and preventing nuisances and obstructions, and for the better alignment of streets therein," be extended to the town of Wollongong.

Fires.—About one o'clock on Saturday afternoon, a portion of the premises occupied by Mr. Cameron, farrier, at the bottom of Malcolm's-lane, adjoining the tanks, between Hunter and Bridge streets, was discovered to be on fire. On the alarm being given, the engines from the military barracks, as well as those belonging to the city were promptly on the spot, and put in operation. Mr. Moir, the newly elected member of the City Council, on hearing of the circumstance, repaired to the spot, and gave such directions to the firemen and those present as enabled them to prevent the flames from communicating with the buildings between Cameron's premises and George-street; as it was, property to the value of upwards of £100 was destroyed. On the same evening, about eight o'clock, an alarm was given that some premises belonging to Mr. Evans, rectifier, Pitt-street, were on fire; here the engines were also present, and succeeded in getting the flames subdued after several pounds' worth of property had been consumed. In both cases the fires are said to have originated from persons smoking on the premises, and allowing the lighted embers from their cigars to fall upon combustible materials.

Police Business.—Saturday.—This Court was opened before the Mayor, with Mr. Smart, and closed at half-past two before the latter and Mr. Windeyer. There were nine drunkards on the list, one of whom was sent to the Hyde Park Barrack Court, four were discharged; one paid 11s.; two for not paying 5s. were sent to the stocks for one hour each; and one for not paying 11s. was sent to the cells for twenty-four hours. There were five cases on the summons list, two of which were dismissed, in consequence of the absence of the prosecutors; in one case the information was withdrawn; one case was postponed, and Matthew Johnson, for deserting his wife, was ordered to pay 6s. per week towards her support. There were eleven cases on the list of general charges, two of the prisoners were discharged; one case was arranged out of Court; in one case, as the prisoner had been liberated on bail, and did not appear when called on, a warrant was issued for his apprehension; six prisoners were remanded, and Catherine Graham for stealing some wearing apparel was committed for trial.

A False Impression Removed.—We were much surprised at hearing, a day or two since a young lady declare her impression that Mr. Wentworth is an exceedingly mild, timid speaker, and that she believed the general impression that he is violent and rough when speaking in public, is erroneous. Upon enquiry we found that our fair friend had formed her opinion of Mr. Wentworth from having attended the prorogation, when the honorable and learned member, in a few words delivered quite in an under tone, brought up the Report of the Transportation Committee, and moved that it be printed. As it is desirable that a proper estimate of a public man should be formed, we think it a public duty to inform the ladies who were present at the prorogation that Mr. Wentworth, out of deference to them, put on a subdued, mild manner, precisely on the same principle that he put on his best coat; and that Mr. Wentworth presenting the Transportation Report, in the presence of a number of ladies, bore no resemblance whatever to Mr. Wentworth addressing the House on an ordinary occasion. In fact his demeanour very forcibly reminded us of a showman who some quarter of a century since exhibited a magic lantern at a school. One of his slides represented a chubby looking little boy in a cockle shell on wheels, drawn by a pair of tigers;—"here" said the showman, "you have the triumf of love over wiolence: these hanimals, naturally of the most savagest natur, would tear this little boy to pieces, but he being Cubit, the god of love, they purceeds along in the most quietest manner possible." Now precisely the effect that the showman declared the power of love to have over the tigers, we attribute to the ladies over Mr. Wentworth,—they subdued his "wiolence," and in their presence he "purceeded in the most quietest manner possible;" but the ladies must not, therefore, think that he behaves in the same quiet manner when they are not there.

Tea Stealing.—About half-past eight o'clock, on Thursday evening, a half-chest of tea, which had been left outside the shop door of Mr. Reynolds, grocer, George street, was snatched up and carried off by a man dressed in a blue jacket, white trousers, and cabbage-tree hat.

Grain.—Statement of the various descriptions of grain held by Government on the 1st November, 1846: Wheat, 39,014 bushels; Maize, 6640 bushels.

Paterson.—Slaughter-houses.—His Excellency the Governor has appointed Mr John Sullivan to be Inspector of Slaughter-houses and of cattle intended to be slaughtered in the town and district of Paterson.

China Goods.—The importation of China and lacquered ware for sale this day, at the Rooms of Mr. George A. Lloyd, will be open for inspection from 9 to 11, a.m., at which latter hour the sale will commence; and as the articles are well selected, and the sale without reserve, the trade will find it to their interest to attend.—Communicated.

NEWS FROM THE INTERIOR.

(From our various Correspondents.)

PARRAMATTA.

The District Council.

This body met on Wednesday, pursuant to adjournment.

The members present were the Warden, Dr. Hill, and Councillors Dr. Anderson, J.P., Messrs. Byrnes, Oakes, Howison, Payten, Edrop, and Pye. The minutes of the previous meeting having been read, and confirmed, the Warden announced the sum of £264 3s. 4d., arising from the district tolls having been paid by the Government to the Council's Treasurer.

Mr. Oakes laid on the table, for the information of the Council, two letters relative to the supply of water, addressed to him as Chairman of the Water Committee: the first was a communication from Mr. James Barr, in reply to the observations made by the Rev. W. B. Clarke, M.A., whose valuable letter to the District Council on this important subject was published in the Sydney Morning Herald of the 15th September. The second letter was from the Rev. Mr. C., in answer to that from Mr. Barr, whose communication had been shown to the former gentleman. Mr. Oakes stated that both letters contained much valuable information. The District Surveyor handed in his usual report on the state of the works. It appeared the number of the prisoners in the Council's employ was fifteen, and that the cutting away of the Baulkham Hill (Windsor Road), would be completed in the course of the present week. Fifteen feet would have been, as was originally intended, taken from the top of the hill, the gradients of the hill would now be on the Parramatta side 1 foot on 15½ feet, formerly 1 foot on 7½ feet; and on the Windsor side 1 foot on 17 feet, formerly 1 foot on 9 feet.

The Surveyor recommended that this work being completed, the men should be set to work on the Prospect (or Western Road) some portion of which is in a very bad state of repair, and which it was proposed should be broken up with the plough and formed afresh.

It was further proposed that the Council's horses and carts should be employed in drawing metal from a quarry between the Liverpool and Sydney Roads, for the purpose of metalling the road between Longbottom and Iron Cove Bridges.

On the report being taken into consideration, Mr. Oakes expressed his concurrence with the recommendation for repairs of the Western Road, which was in many places in a very bad state, and detailed some serious accidents as having occurred there.

Mr. Pye urged on the Council to lose no time in proceeding with the work in question. A rather lengthy discussion arose as to the best manner on which the proposed repairs could be made, and much technical knowledge was displayed relative to the art of road making, and Telford and Macadam's works on this subject quoted. After it had been arranged that the advantages or disadvantages of two plans submitted to the Council should be referred to the Committee of Works, and some experiments made,

Mr. Byrnes spoke as to the necessity of repairs on the Western Road. It was only just to the inhabitants on that locality that something should be done, as the Council had received about £2000 in tolls from the Western Road, and not above £50 had been spent on it.

Mr. Pye was equally desirous on this point, and that there should be no delay in the matter. The funds the Council were in receipt of until the end of the year he wished to see expended by that time, and if the Council had not sufficient men to complete the required repairs by the time he had alluded to, let free labour be employed. Further, if the road in question was put in a good state of repair, the Council could, with a very good grace, ask the Government for assistance for the ensuing year. Moreover, he was averse to seeing the Council's officers employed in superintending so few men as at present were under their orders. Considering it important the Western Road should be thoroughly repaired, he was opposed to the proposed metalling of the Sydney Road, preferring the labour at the Council's disposal being all employed at the first named locality.

After a few observations from Dr. Anderson and Messrs. Howison and Oakes, the subject was referred to the Committee of Works, with instructions to report at an early date; and advertisements inviting tenders for certain work required to be performed and for road metal, were directed to be inserted in the Sydney Morning Herald and Australian.

The Council then directed the payment of the officers' salaries and sundry accounts, amounting to £83 13s.

The Warden stated, that after paying the amount just voted, the balance in the Treasurer's hands was £73; but there was due to the Council the rental of two gates, for two months; and of the third gate for three months.

SUPPLY OF WATER.

Mr. Byrnes, in moving the resolution standing in his name relative to an application being made to the Government to adopt measures to remove the nuisance caused by the drains by the Government establishments emptying themselves into the river, whereby the source from whence the inhabitants of the town derived their supply of water was rendered impure and unwholesome, observed, the resolution submitted to the Council would speak for itself. It was one founded on the reasonableness of the request made in the first instance by the Council to the Governor, to place on the estimates a sum of money to be appropriated towards works to insure a sufficient supply of fresh water for the inhabitants of this town. He could not help being dissatisfied with the Governor's refusal to comply with the request, more particularly such refusal being given on the simple ground that as it was "an undertaking for local purposes, the expense ought not to be defrayed from the general revenue." He (Mr. B.) looked upon it as the duty of every government to secure and protect the health and insure the welfare of the population over which it presided. His Excellency had been asked to place a certain sum on the estimates and submit the same to the Legislative Council in order that that body might record its opinion as to the importance of the object sought, by either voting or refusing the sum. He (Mr. B.) entertained no fear that there would have been a refusal, because what was asked for was only reasonable, for there was no portion of the colony, in that most essential requirement, a sufficient supply of pure water, that had been so neglected as Parramatta had. Regarding Great Britain, look at the legislative measures there to secure the sanatory state of the population in towns, and he would remark that the first question put in all enquiries made there by the Commissioners was, "Have the inhabitants a pure supply of water?" and the adoption of means to secure their having such was one of the leading features of every enactment. He repeated, it was the duty of the Government of this colony to see that a population like that of Parramatta was not without an ample supply of water, and that supply one of pure and wholesome water. It was known to all that there was neither a pure nor wholesome supply, and had it not been for the providential rains that fell two months or so since, long ere this the most disastrous consequences must have ensued, for upon the resource of a very small stream 5000 persons were dependent for their supply of water. Ought it not to occupy the attention of the Government, to guard against the breaking out of any malignant disease? He would appeal to a Councillor present, a medical gentleman of long experience (Dr. Anderson), whether impure water had not been known to cause diarrhœa and other ailments: might not such happen here as well as elsewhere? The fact of the water at present used by the inhabitants being most impure, could not be got over, neither that such impurity was or had been caused by the filth drained from, and which was continually running from the Government establishments. On the ground of common protection to its own establishments, if not of humanity to those within their walls, Government ought to do something. Suppose disease breaking out in the Factory, General Hospital, or Gaol, why, to say nothing of the anxiety caused to those in charge, the expense of medicines, and burial of the dead, would cost more than what the Council had asked for. As to how great the popularity of the Government might have been in Parramatta, had what was asked for been granted—he would not dilate upon. One more observation—he perceived in the reports on the health of the towns in Great Britain one great point insisted on was the cleanliness of the dwellings of the labouring classes. If the Government are bound, as they must in all reason be, to remove the nuisances complained of, they will find the expense will be more than the sum first applied for by the Council. Mr. B. then moved "That until the Government built the Female Factory, the General Hospital, and the Goal, upon the fresh water stream supplying the town of Parramatta, the water was perfectly pure and wholesome, but now the contrary is the case, as clearly shown by evidence taken before a Select Committee of this Council, and that in consequence of His Excellency the Governor having refused to place a sum of money on the Estimates for the purpose of supplying the town with pure water, so essential to the health of the inhabitants, the Warden be required to forward this resolution to His Excellency the Governor, requesting the Executive Government to adopt measures for removing the nuisance."

Mr. Oakes seconded the motion, proposing that a verbal alteration, which was agreed to, be made in the motion as it originally stood, with the view of expediting the matter. It was necessary this most important subject should be again brought under the notice of the Government, who, he considered, must see reasons for revising the decision it had arrived at; in fact, it was the duty of the Council towards its constituents to compel the Government to act in the matter. He felt perfectly assured, from what he had heard from members, that the Legislative Council would grant the proposed funds. The Council must agitate, and not cease doing so until it had accomplished its object; and by keeping up the agitation the matter would be clearly brought under the notice of the Council at their next session.

Mr. Howison, in supporting the motion would remark, that when Sir Richard Bourke occupied Government House, he was so well satisfied of the impurity of the supply of water from the river, that he had it cut off, and a supply procured from another source for his own private use.

The resolution was then carried unanimously.

REVENUE FOR 1847.

Mr. Oakes moved that the Warden be requested to make application to the Executive Government for a portion of the sum of £5000 voted by the Legislature for the repair of roads in the county of Cumberland, in the year 1847. He considered what the Council had done made out a very strong case in support of a claim for some share of the £5000. Moreover, the Council having all the necessary machinery at work for carrying out the repairs of the roads and bridges, the money would be more advantageously expended by them than by any other mode. He was desirous of an early application being made, as he wished to see the operations of the Council extended, and working on a larger scale than what they were now doing, which he felt assured would be highly to the advantage of the public at large.

Mr. Byrnes second the motion, which was carried unanimously.

Mr. Oakes then moved, that application by letter be made to His Excellency the Governor for prisoners to supply the place of those that have become free, and especially for the loan to the Council of such prisoners as may have lost their tickets-of leave. Mr. O. said his object in seeking the loan of the latter class of prisoners was, that there was not now, he believed, any probationary gangs for men who had been unfortunate enough to lose their indulgence, and as men of this class were far better away from the contamination of Hyde Park Barracks, where no opportunity was given them of retrieving their characters, whereas if placed in the Council gangs they were certain of obtaining, as had been the case with many, the restoration of their tickets in a few months if deserving of them. He thought it would be merely an act of charity and humanity, now that there were no probationary gangs, to place men where they could have the advantage of such.

Mr. Byrnes seconded the motion, which was agreed to without dissent, and the Council then adjourned until Wednesday next, the 11th instant.

Alleged Breach of the Distillation Act.—A few days since a notice appeared in the Sydney Morning Herald, of Mr. Maxwell, the Chief Inspector of Distilleries, having seized a box in Hunter-street, Sydney, which on being opened was found to contain a ten-gallon keg of new made spirits, which had been forwarded from a house in Church street, Parramatta. As legal proceedings have now been taken in the matter, and the case will be shortly before the Supreme Court, the following particulars may be given:—On the 27th ult., Mr. Maxwell seized, in the shop of Mr. Youngman, druggist, of Hunter-street, Sydney, where it was being delivered by a man of the name of Jones, a Parramatta carrier, a box, having a lock and key, and resembling that description of box usually possessed by servants, and which being opened was discovered to contain a keg, containing ten and a-half gallons of spirit of wine 50 per cent. overproof, and therefore equal to about sixteen gallons of spirit, and was found to have been sent to Mr Youngman, from Mr. Rowling, a chymist of this town, and who holds a license to keep a still of eight gallons contents, for distilling such spirit as may be required in his own business. The instructions sent with the spirit seized at Youngman's was, that it was to be made into French polish. Immediately after making the seizure Mr. Maxwell proceeded to Parramatta, and on examining Mr. Rowling's premises, found in the apartment where the still was kept about 300 gallons of wash fermenting, from molasses and sugar, five large vats, about twenty gallons, of low wines and spirits; and the still, which was of the required druggist's size of eight gallons, but being fitted with a wash warmer, it was rendered equal to double that contents, charged with wash and running spirit. Proceedings have been commenced for the recovery of the amount of the bond given by Mr. Rowling and sureties previous to his obtaining his license; it being considered Mr. R. has been guilty of a breach of the conditions on which the same was allowed him.

WILBERFORCE.

A Meeting, convened pursuant to public notice, of the inhabitants of this district was held at the Wilberforce parish school-house, on Wednesday last, for the purpose of considering the expediency of building a church in that locality in connexion with the Church of England. The meeting was very respectably attended, most of the influential inhabitants of the district being present.

The Rev. Mr. Stiles having proposed that the minister of the parish should take the chair, which having been seconded by Mr. Joshua Vickery, the Rev. T. C. Ewing briefly addressed the meeting, stating the object for which it had been convened. He remarked, that the objects of discussion for which they had assembled were not numerous but important. They were assembled for the purpose of discussing the expediency of building in the town of Wilberforce a church in which Divine Service might be celebrated according to the forms prescribed by the Church of England. If the meeting agreed that a necessity did exist for building such an edifice in that locality, they would then enter into the arrangements necessary for the accomplishment of so very desirable and important an object. He would not trespass on the time of the meeting by proving that such a necessity did exist, for that would be the province of those who would move and second the resolutions which were about to be proposed for their adoption, neither would he anticipate any objections which might be urged by those hostile to the objects they had in view. Indeed no necessity did exist for him addressing them on the expediency of building a church, which might be dedicated to God, for the exclusive celebration of his worship, and in which the inhabitants of the town and district might assemble for the purpose of rendering to Him the honour due unto His name, as he very recently had an opportunity of addressing them fully on that subject, and therefore it would now be superfluous to recapitulate what he had said at that time—he called upon the first resolution to be moved.

Mr. Christopher Vickery then moved "That this meeting not only acknowledges the goodness of Almighty God for the means of grace placed within the reach of the inhabitants of the town and district of Wilberforce, but also resolves that it is the duty of the residents, according to the ability which they respectively possess, to use their best exertions for the erection of an edifice which may be dedicated to God, and in which Divine Worship only may be celebrated." The purport of the resolution which he had just read was of so reasonable a description, that few words were required from him to recommend it to the adoption of the meeting. Many parts of the colony were without the means of grace, but for many years past the people of Wilberforce had enjoyed that invaluable blessing, and if God demanded their gratitude for the temporal mercies which they enjoyed, he no less requires their acknowledgments for the spiritual benefits which they possessed. As Christians, it became them to be interested in each other's welfare, and hence it was their duty to attend to the necessities of their poorer neighbours by subscribing according to their ability for the erection of an edifice in which the poor as well as the rich might assemble to worship God. He was satisfied that the people of the locality were aware of the responsibility to which their privileges subjected them; and he trusted that they would come forward and discharge the duties which were incumbent upon them, one of which unquestionably was the erection of an edifice to the honour of Almighty God.

Mr. Tristram Dunstan, in seconding the resolution, cordially agreed with every remark which the previous speaker had made.

Mr. Joshua Vickery moved the second resolution, which was as follows:—"Inasmuch as there is no church in the town or district of Wilberforce, it is not only highly desirable but absolutely necessary, taking into consideration the number of the inhabitants, that one should be built; and this meeting hereby pledges itself to be unremitting in its exertions to build in the township a church in connexion with the Church of England." He remarked, that he moved the resolution with very great pleasure indeed. It required few arguments to prove the necessity of building a church in the town of Wilberforce. No church existed in the locality. The people assembled to worship God in a school-house; and he was convinced that a school-room was not a proper place in which to worship, if it be in the power of the inhabitants to erect a church. That policy which provides for the accommodation of the body without having reference to the concerns of the soul was very short-sighted indeed; and as building a church would give permanency to the due celebration of religious ordinances amongst them, he hoped the meeting would pledge itself according to the terms of the resolution he had proposed. Another reason which could be urged for the immediate erection of a church in the township was, that the school-room at present used as a church was inadequate to the accommodation of those who were desirous of attending the house of God. He had seen parties compelled to leave for the want of room, and even those who remained were much inconvenienced by the crowded state of the congregation. He had been told by individuals that they would not attend the church until better accommodation had been afforded, and they signified their willingness to subscribe towards the erection of a church—such considerations should actuate them to be up and doing, and he for one would pledge himself to use his best exertions for bringing the intended church to a speedy completion.

Mr. Robinson, in seconding the resolution, bore testimony to the crowded state of the congregation, and quite agreed with the previous speaker as to the necessity which existed for a church in the town of Wilberforce.

Mr. Richard Cobcroft moved the third resolution. It was as follows:—"That to carry into effect the object which this meeting has in view, and for the accomplishment of which it has pledged itself, a Committee be now formed whose duties in the mean time will be to solicit and collect subscriptions for the said church. This meeting therefore resolves that the Committee be composed of the following gentlemen, namely, the minister of the parish, ex officio chairman and secretary; Mr. Christopher Vickery, local treasurer; members of committee—Mr. J. Vickery, Mr. J. Cobcroft, Mr. Richard Cobcroft, Mr. Robert Farlow, Mr. David Dunstan, Mr. Jacob Goorick, Mr. J. Robinson, Mr. Tristram Dunstan, Mr. John Dunstan, and Mr. Henry Buttsworth.

Mr. Goorick seconded the resolution.

Mr. S Tuckerman moved the fourth resolution, namely, "That this meeting resolves that the committee will be unable to transact any business unless four of the members be present, which number will form a quorum, and that on the 4th day of December next the members of Committee meet, so as to hand over to the local treasurer the amounts which they may severally collect, and this meeting hereby authorises and requests the treasurer to pay into the Commercial Bank, Sydney, the amount of the money which he may at that time receive, to be placed to an account, then to be opened, called the "Wilberforce Church Building Fund." The meeting would perceive that the resolution he had proposed was one altogether necessary—they would all see the propriety of it, and he would therefore not enlarge upon the subject. That a church was necessary in the town of Wilberforce he could bear testimony. He was in the habit of attending the place in which divine service is now celebrated, and he was convinced that the congregation during the last five months had increased nearly two-fold. It was therefore with pleasure he moved the resolution.

Mr. CHRISTOPHER VICKERY seconded the above resolution. He was of opinion that a school-house was not a proper place for the celebration of divine worship, and he trusted that the parishioners would enable him to place to the account of the Wilberforce Church Building Fund a suitable amount for the erection of the contemplated Church.

The Rev. Mr. STILES begged to remark, in reference to what Mr. C. Vickery had said, that a school-room was not a proper place in which to worship God, if the inhabitants were not in a position to build a church. Had they not the ability, their meeting in a schoolroom to worship would be quite justifiable, otherwise it would not; and they were chargeable with neglect of duty if they failed to build one. As to what Mr. Vickery had said with regard to the funds, he would state that unless the inhabitants raised £300 they need expect no Government aid; but if that amount could be realised, the parishioners then would be entitled to an equal amount from Government. Such was the law, whether judicious or not it was not for him to say. It appeared to be opposed to the genius of Christianity. Our Saviour said that the poor should have the Gospel preached unto them; but the provisions of the Church Act went far to counteract our Saviour's intention in that respect. (We regret our inability to give more than the merest outline of Mr. Stile's very interesting and appropriate speech, which was listened to with marked attention.)

Mr. DAVID DUNSTAN seconded the adoption of the resolution.

All the above resolutions, with some of a mere business character, were unanimously agreed to.

The CHAIRMAN then remarked it would require something more than words to build the church, and that the gentlemen present would have an opportunity of subscribing towards its erection. The list having been opened the handsome sum of £100 15s. was immediately subscribed.

It was then moved and seconded that the Rev. Mr. Ewing should leave the chair, and that the same be taken by the Rev. Mr. Stiles, when it was proposed and carried that the thanks of the meeting be rendered to Mr. Ewing for the very efficient manner in which he had conducted the duties of the chair. He then returned thanks, when the meeting separated.

LOWER MURRUMBIDGEE.

OCTOBER 27.—In my last communication I alluded to the capture, by Messrs. Edwin and Alfred Tompson, of a notorious scoundrel, supposed to be the murderer of the old turnkey of Parramatta Gaol. The apprehension of this man reflects the highest credit on the parties who took him into custody, and at great personal trouble and inconvenience, and without the aid of police, delivered him into safe keeping to the authorities of Yass. The following is a detail of the occurrence:—

The prisoner, who turns out to be Cashan alias Nowlan, (who escaped from the Weatherboard Hut on his way to Sydney from Bathurst, where he had been sentenced at the assizes to transportation for life, had robbed a station of Dr. Nicholson's, near Gundagai, taking property to a considerable amount belonging to the man in charge, and with the plunder secured before him on a horse, pushed down the Murrumbidgee. The man who was robbed, and whose name is Andrews, having received information of the scoundrel's route, followed him, and reached Mr. Charles Simpson's cattle station, on which Messrs. Alfred and Edwin Tompson resided. Here Andrews ascertained that Cashan had not passed, and whilst receiving directions for his route to Mr. Tompson's head station, the robber, with the property on his horse, hove in sight, Andrews having passed him somewhere upon the road, without being aware of it. As he advanced Andrews identified the robber, and retreated into the hut to prevent Cashan observing him; on the latter riding up to obtain refreshment, (which he did boldly enough,) Messrs. Tompson took him prisoner. They were not aware at this time, that there was any other charge against the fellow than that of robbing Dr. Nicholson's station, but Cashan's conduct convinced them he was a desperate character, and that some more serious crime than the one in question rested upon him. On being told "he must consider himself a prisoner," he blustered and bullied, and being well dressed, attempted to personate the ill-used and insulted gentleman; but finding this "no go," he made a desperate effort to escape, by plunging into the Murrumbidgee, which was then in flood, and more than twice its ordinary width. Nothing but the dread of fearful consequences from his apprehension could have induced any man to attempt so desperate a deed as this, clothed as this man was in a top coat over his other garments. The stream flowed with great rapidity, and although Cashan uttered a laugh of exultation and derision when he plunged into the water, he was but a few yards from the brink ere the stream overpowered his most desperate efforts, and he sank. He rose to the surface some yards down the stream, and being washed near a large oak-tree, whose boughs were pendulous, succeeded in catching hold of one, and with great difficulty reached a fork of the tree, where he sat and recovered himself. He did not relish trusting himself in the river, but as it was necessary he should get back, Mr. Edwin Tompson expedited his movements by proposing to shoot him where he was, if he preferred that to the risk of drowning; and after some consideration, and rather unpleasant threats, aided by significant allusions to a couple of true barrels, which opened their iron mouths with a very persuasive knock-down expression and gesture, he preferred water to lead, and swam back to his captors. He was then handcuffed, and on the following day Mr. Alfred Tompson, accompanied by Andrews, started with him to Yass. Before reaching that place he made sundry efforts to escape, by attempting to break his handcuffs, &c.; but he was in good hands, and was safely handed over by Mr. Tompson to the Yass authorities. At the Police Office he was identified as the man who burnt Dr. Bell's house at Braidwood; robbed the Braidwood and Bathurst mails, (in which last exploit he nearly perpetrated murder); and affected his escape from the Weatherboard Hut. There are large rewards for his apprehension. He is suspected to have been concerned in the murder of the unfortunate man Davis, of Burrowa; and as Cashan has turned Queen's evidence, and has already implicated a great many persons as his accomplices in some dreadful deeds, it is expected this fearful cold-blooded murder will be at length brought to light. This scoundrel has been carrying on horse-stealing throughout this district to a great extent, and appears to be inclined now to make restitution, for he is "peaching and no mistake," and the next census will show a deficiency among the "little settlers," I expect, in consequence of his information.

Shearing has commenced generally throughout this district. The price given is 3s. per score, and 5s. per day for washing. At these rates the labourers find their own provisions. The wool is for the most part well got up, but the grass seed, which is ripening rapidly, threatens to deteriorate the wool considerably before the business of the season is over.

The weather has been excessively sultry during the last fortnight, and rain is now much wanted.

ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE.

THE VICE-ADMIRALTY COURT.

CASE OF THE "JAVA," TRANSPORT.

To the Editors of the Sydney Morning Herald.

GENTLEMEN,—As the jurisdiction of the Vice-Admiralty Court has lately attracted much attention as a public grievance in this colony, we beg to give you a detailed account of proceedings lately taken in this Court against the ship Java, Captain Parker, R.N., Commander. The plaintiff in the suit was a butcher lad named Walker, who had engaged in London to serve on board the vessel at 20s. per month for the voyage, but who deserted the vessel here a few days ago, on the eve of her departure for New Zealand.

About ten days ago, the Java was chartered by Government to convey troops to New Zealand and India, and when ready for sea on Monday last, the lad Walker secretly left the ship, taking his clothes along with him, but leaving the box which had contained them locked up in his bunk. Captain Parker applied for, and obtained a warrant, for his apprehension, as required by law; but up to last night he had not been apprehended. In the mean time, Walker sets Mr. John Dillon, the solicitor, in motion, to claim his wages and discharge from Captain Parker, on the ground that he (Walker) had been dis-rated—that instead of being employed as butcher, he had been ordered forward to do the duty of an ordinary seaman. It appears from the affidavit of a Mr. William Howson, that Mr. Dillon, (Walker's attorney,) applied to have the matter disposed of in the usual way at the Police Office—that Mr. Windeyer, however, declined to adjudicate, but referred the case at once to the Vice-Admiralty Court. Whereupon the man Walker swore, that the ship owed him five pounds, and Mr. Howson swore that Mr. Windeyer would not interfere, and that the "aid and process" of the Vice-Admiralty Court was necessary. On these documents a warrant issued, and the Java was forthwith arrested. We subjoin copies of the two affidavits referred to, which will speak for themselves. The ship being under orders to proceed on her voyage, and Government having ordered that she should be towed to sea by a steamer the following day, we lost no time in applying in the proper quarter to get the ship released from arrest. To get this done it was necessary to put in bail for £200 to answer the alleged claim of the deserter Walker for five pounds. Being informed that in putting in bail the rules of the Court required that the plaintiff's attorney should have 24 hours' notice, and that it would probably involve a delay of some two or three days to release the vessel in the event of that gentleman throwing any obstacles in the way. We offered to pay down the amount of bail in sovereigns, as a shorter mode of settling the matter. But to this proposal the Judge of the Court replied that he could not travel out of the way of the statute under which he was acting, unless the plaintiff chose to accept that form of security as a matter of favour. To expect that a gentleman of Captain Parker's station should go cap in hand to ask a favour of any kind at the hands of a deserter from his ship, would of course be preposterous. It therefore became a question whether to detain the ship and enter into the necessary bail for her release, or pay Mr. Dillon the amount of his claim and costs, and pocket the imposition. Consulting the interests of the owners and charterers it was deemed most advisable to pursue the latter course, and accordingly we paid the sum of sixteen pounds, viz., £5 for Walker, and £11 for costs to Mr. Dillon last night, and early this morning the ship was taken to sea under tug of a steamer.

It may be supposed that it would have been the wiser course to have paid Walker's claim at once, and have done with the matter, but had this been quietly submitted to in the first instance, it was well known that Mr. Dillon's avowed intention was to bring seventeen more of the crew out of the ship on a writ of habeas corpus, and the delay and expense of such a proceeding would be most disastrous in its results. Even when it was determined to pay Walker's claim, it became necessary to take the precaution of delaying the settlement until the Court was closed for the day, and then to have the ship outside the Heads before it opened this morning; and it was by this precaution alone that the proceedings which Mr. Dillon threatened were frustrated.

It is unnecessary to make any comment on this vexatious and unjust proceeding, further than to state that the amount of wages actually due to Walker was about four pounds, but by the act of desertion all wages become forfeited. Yet this man is enabled to arrest, and detain for several days, a ship of 1200 tons, with 900 souls on board, and under charter to the Lords of the Admiralty, and that too by the "aid and process" of their own Court in this colony.

In these remarks it is far from our intention to complain of the part which the Judge and officers of the Court had in the matter. These gentlemen, we believe, afforded us such assistance and advice (to enable us to settle it amicably,) as were compatible with the higher duties of their office. Neither do we complain of the conduct of Mr. Dillon for doing his utmost to earn a living under a state of the law which proves so good a source of income to him. But it is high time that some steps were taken to get rid of a jurisdiction so unjust in principle, and mischievous in its results as that of the Vice-Admiralty Court in this Colony has proved to be. The merchants and ship owners in and connected with this port should therefore lose no time in petitioning the Imperial Government to have the jurisdiction of this Court removed from the colony.

We are, Gentlemen,
Your obedient servants,

Agents for the Java Transport.

ADVANTAGE.
RECOLLECT,
ONLY SEVEN WEEKS
PRIOR TO THE
SALE BY AUCTION,

The stock at the BEE HIVE, is replete with all the
NOVELTIES OF THE SEASON, and is certainly the best assorted, most extensive, and CHEAPEST IN THE COLONY.

And in speaking of the novelties of the season, it is really marvellous to find how exhaustless the ingenuity of man is to furnish the fair creation with materials to adorn their persons: for every shipment brings with it some new offering to their taste, and it is even still more marvellous the low prices at which these can be procured; so low, indeed, that thousands and tens of thousands can now afford to purchase what in ancient times was to be found only in the wardrobes of the wives and daughters of kings and nobles; nay—even more beautiful and more graceful fabrics than their luxury could command.

The following are a few of the matchless attractions which the BEE HIVE now presents.

SILKS.
Many thousand yards of fancy striped tartan, checked, and French brocaded SILKS, SATINS, &c., for dresses, which by a rare piece of good fortune have been bought twenty-five per cent. below their value, and will be sold accordingly.

THREE CASES very superior BLACK and COLOURED GROS DE NAPLES, SATINETTS, WATERED and Striped Scarf Silks, Glacé ditto.

A particularly cheap lot of fashionable CHECKS at 1s. 9½d. per yard, being really worth 2s. 6d.

SHAWLS.
In this department will be found a variety that cannot fail to please the most fastidious.
The
PLAIN AND FIGURED BLACK SATIN SHAWLS deserve notice, being very superior.
Also,
FIVE CASES OF LIGHT CASHMERE
SUMMER SHAWLS,
Which cost in England 18s., to be sold at 12s. 6d. each.

THE MUSLIN AND FANCY DRESS DEPARTMENT is teeming with novelties and attractions amongst which will be found the much admired
CASTELINE SERAPHINIE MUSLINS, patronised by
HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.
507 FAST-COLOURED MUSLINS, from 3s. 4½d. to 5s. 4½d. the full dress.
396 DRESSES
of the celebrated
POIL DE CHEVRE,
at 4s. 10½d.

From the great demand amongst ladies for this description of summer dress, it is highly requisite that an early call should be made by those who do not wish to be disappointed, this being the only lot in town.

WHITE MUSLIN DRESSES.
The Bee Hive has always stood so preeminent for cheap and beautiful dresses in this class of muslins, that not one word need be said beyond the fact, that if anything they surpass all previously offered.

MOUSSELINES DE LAINE,
small patterns in the piece, a large variety.
DRESS STYLES, (quite new), at 4s. 6d. and 5s. 6d.
860 DRESSES, at 7s. 6d., cost in England 11s. 6d.
593 DRESSES, very superior, at 9s. 6d., worth 16s. 6d.

These De Laines having been purchased from the manufacturer at a heavy discount, (the party being in want of cash) will be found deserving of immediate and very particular attention, as from the lowness of the price they cannot remain on hand.

BELZORINES AND BARAGEE,
At 4s. 4½d., 8s. 6d., and 11s. 6d. The styles of these dresses are certainly most superb, being from the celebrated French house of Beauvoisin and Girardin.
FANCY HANDKERCHIEFS, SCARFS, and NECK TIES.
FRENCH and AYRSHIRE WORKED MUSLIN COLLARS, of the very newest shapes and patterns, one large lot in particular having been bought a great bargain, will be sold at from 7½d. to 10s. 6d. each.

PARASOLS.
As ever the largest and cheapest stock in New South Wales, comprising all the new shapes, viz.:—The Mineret, La Sylphide, and the Claremont, 1000 PLAIN BROWN DITTO, FROM 3s. 6d. TO 9s. 6d.,

C. N. and Brother particularly invite the attention of drapers, storekeepers, and dealers, to their stock of parasols, as, very latterly the same description of goods have sold for fully 50 per cent. more at auction.

Purchasers will find particularly well selected.

"DIXON AND GALLOWAY'S."
They comprise
Small patterns for children's frocks
Ditto ditto, choice styles for ladies' morning wrappers
2304 DRESS CHINTZ PATTERNS, from 2s. 6d. to 9s. 6d.

HOSIERY,
GLOVES,
SMALLWARES, AND HABERDASHERY.
In these departments will be found every class of goods belonging to them. C. N. and Brother have taken very particular care to procure through their London agent the best makes, and also to procure every article required. With reference to the price, those who have purchased at the Bee Hive do not require to be told that they are cheaper than any others in this part of the world.

It were idle, indeed, to attempt to convey an idea of either the beauty or cheapness of the infinite variety of materials designs, colours, and patterns, that are to be found in this establishment. Suffice it to say, that here is concentrated all that the richest taste could wish—and all that can satisfy those who desire to blend economy with fashion.

THE GLORIOUS UNCERTAINTY OF THE LAW.

SOME time since I purchased from a man by the name of Lloyd, 2000 gallons of molasses, more or less, at the rate of £12 per ton, to be delivered. He stated to me the molasses was in tanks, and I was to find the casks to contain the said molasses. I ordered my coopers to procure casks to hold it, which being done, and not hearing from Mr. Lloyd for the space of a week I went to him, I asked him when the molasses would be ready to land, he told me it was at the bottom of the ship and could not be easily got at. On repeated applications, which occupied a fortnight or three weeks I found myself in the same state of uncertainty; I immediately made enquiries at several of the wharfs whether there was any molasses landing, or landed there. I received an answer from the Sugar Company Wharf saying, that the ship that contained molasses had gone round to land her cargo at Mr. Campbell's Wharf; I went there and found it had been landed, and taken to Messrs. Gilchrist's and Alexander's Stores. I went there, and asked if they had any molasses for sale; he replied in the affirmative. I asked him the price in the presence of Mr. Browne, Wine Merchant, George-street, he told me £12 a ton, cash on delivery, I agreed to take it. I sent the money to Messrs. Gilchrist and Alexander, which can be seen by their receipt, and removed the molasses. Strange to say, one Mr. Thompson commenced an action against me for the amount I paid Messrs. Gilchrist and Alexander, and without delivering one ounce of molasses obtained a verdict against me in the Supreme Court. Ought I to have gained a verdict against him, or he against me? He having been the means of keeping my house idle for the space of one month.
